A: No. ATFP, while proud of its accomplishments, is a modestly-sized operation, to be sure. As it stands today, ATFP has 4 full-time paid staff, a number of occasional paid technical consultants, and unpaid interns and volunteers. It also has a pro bono president and a pro bono accountant who have both served the organization for over 10 years without any form of pay or other compensation of any kind. ATFP's President and co-founder is Dr. Ziad J. Asali and its Executive Director is Ghaith al-Omari. For a full list of ATFP's current staff, click here. [2]
